

WILL THE DRILL FIND OIL AND MAKE MILLIONS FOR ADAMS COUNTY PEOPLE.

Contract for Lumber for Derrick Given Out—Drilling to Commence at an Early Date.

The year 1907 will probably see the question answered whether petroleum exists underneath Adams county soil. If oil is found, Adams county will see a boom that will be phenomenal and startling. Fortunes will be made rapidly and the old county would go forward with leaps and bounds.

The COMPILER first called attention to the surface indications that ask for explanations. The oil on the water in streams in Hamiltonban township, above Orrtanna, the brown substance lining the banks, the odor of crude oil and other indications previously mentioned.

Charles H. Ehrenfeld, analytical and consulting chemist, of York, after a trip of inspection through that section said, "Although the weather conditions at the time were unfavorable, I was surprised to see what external evidences there were of the presence of oil. The latter could be seen floating on the streams and eddies where the water was more quiet. This was not confined to one or even a few localities, but was observed over a large number of acres miles apart. Although in the nature of the case no positive word can be said as to whether or not oil is to be found in the locality, I can safely say that all the surface indications were strongly favorable."

Robert Rawlings, an oil expert, who visited the Hamiltonban township tracts said, "I observed a scum on the surface of the water, but owing to springfreshets could not collect enough to identify it as oil. It reflected the color of petroleum, a paper spread on the surface of the water where this scum appeared would burn while still wet, the paper must have absorbed oil. A bottle containing a little oil collected from certain springs was given to me, it certainly contained petroleum. I found that several of the springs and streams contained gas, this gas I recognized as similar to what I have found in springs in the oil fields of Adams county. I was told that strong odor of natural gas or petroleum accompanied certain conditions of the weather. In oil fields this is the case, under certain weather conditions the odor being much more pronounced. I found several specimens of the kind of rock in which petroleum is found, viz: open quartz, sandstone and shales. On the island of Manitoulin in Lake Huron, there appeared indications of oil similar to those on this property, tests have been made at intervals since way back in the sixties but the oil was not located until recently, when a "gusher" was struck. Many of the oil fields of the world have been located by the appearance of oil on the surface of the water."

Very recently a practical oil man from Bradford county came here and before visiting Hamiltonban township was skeptical. After he had gone over the section he was asked for his opinion and he said he was surprised to find surface indications similar to what he had seen in Bradford county. There are those who have told of noticing these indications for more than thirty years.

The South Mountain Oil and Developing Company will be ready in a few weeks to go after an explanation for these indications. The company was chartered in Delaware and its officers are residents of Waterbury, Conn. In the investigations Bradford county was visited and citizens of that county learning of the indications here asked to go into the venture.

Last week the company contracted with E. F. Strasbaugh, of Orrtanna, for the lumber for building the oil rigs or derricks to be used in drilling. There are over 15,000 feet of lumber in each rig and some of the timbers are 16x16x24. The derricks have to be very solid.

G. C. Oriatt, a successful oil well driller has the contract for the drilling, and carloads of machinery, iron casing, drill pipe, and all sorts of tools used in drilling an oil well will be on the ground within a few days.

The company has arranged for an expert rig builder of Bradford county to erect the derrick. The lumber is contracted to be delivered by July 5, and the building will be immediately begun. The point for first drilling has been located near the stream on the old Livers' farm.

It is the intention to be prepared to go down two to three thousand feet or more with the first well and if the question of oil can not be answered by the first well, other wells will be drilled.

One of the interesting features of this proposed drilling is the sanguine attitude of a number of citizens of Hamiltonban. They know all about the indications and they are expecting oil to be found.

Bess Swarm in Street.

Last Friday morning a swarm of bees moved from their retired home and took up quarters on a public street of the town, one of the trees in front of the residence of C. W. Stoner, Esq., on Baltimore St. Merville E. Stallsmith captured the swarm. From a hay ladder he sawed off the branch of the tree upon which the swarm hung. With bare face, neck and sleeves rolled up beyond the elbow the bees in no way molested him and he proceeded to have as much fun as possible with the swarm on the limb over his shoulder. When he moved toward the crowd of watchers they would separate explosively and when he requested to be allowed to enter stores to live his bees in a box he met with some language more forcible than elegant. After the fun he took the swarm home and put it in a hive.

STACKER COMPANY ORGANIZED

Stacker Manufactured Pronounced Best on Market.

Gettysburg has added to her industries a new company and great hopes are entertained for its success. The Keystone Stacker Company was formally organized on last Friday morning at the office of J. L. Butt, Esq.

The Company has been started with a capital of 1200 shares of a par value of $10 and has been sold at $5 a share. One half of this issue was subscribed for by thirty citizens of Gettysburg, each taking 20 shares of stock and other half has been largely subscribed for in the county. The stockholders elected seven directors, W. D. Markley, A. F. Trostle, J. L. Butt, John Kimple, Merville E. Zinn, J. E. Sheibley, and Chas. Williams.

The Board of Directors immediately organized by electing J. L. Butt, Pres., John Kimple Vice President, Sec. Dr. Ed. H. Markley and Treas. C. B. Dougherty.

The Company has arranged to rent the property of Wm. T. Ziegler, north of Reading freight depot, at one time used as a soap factory. The Company becomes the owner of Keystone Force Feed Straw Stacker, and in a trying test under the observation of a number of the stockholders was found to be an unequalled success. It is said that there is no question that the stacker far exceeds any stacker now on the market. That there is none to be compared to it in efficiency, and that large interests who would use the stacker had recognized its usefulness, and were willing to take the entire output of the Company.

The company will begin the work of construction at an early date, expecting to have a number of stackers completed before the threshing season is over, and after demonstrating its high efficiency, propose to run the plant as largely as it can be operated.

W. D. Markley was elected Superintendent of Construction and J. E. Sheibley, Superintendent of Sales. They are seeking workmen that will be needed in the plant and have already selected a number who will be ready to begin work as soon as the machinery is on the ground and installed.

The citizens who have become interested in the Company are confident that they have a good thing and that the plant will play an important part in the development of the town.

Compiler Improvements.

The COMPILER believes in improvement not only for others but as well for itself. No individual, plant or community can stand at one point for any appreciable time, if it is not an advance it is a backward move. The COMPILER has during the last five years been making one improvement after another but probably the most important is now to be undertaken.

We have contracted for a new standard Mergenthaler linotype to be delivered in August. As soon as installed the dress of the COMPILER will be new with each issue. The opportunity will be given to increase the space devoted to local news, indeed the entire reading space of paper is made available for local news. The machine will be of the latest and best pattern capable of doing the best newspaper, periodical and book work. The machine will cost installed over $3,500.

This improvement presents an opportunity to our subscribers and patrons to help themselves to a better paper and a better service by helping us. This can be done by the payment of all arrears of subscription and work. If all those in arrears would pay their accounts to date or ahead they would make light our task of a better service. What better proposition would our friends want than this, give us all available means that are due and owing so that we may spend the same to return a better service to you, and let us have same on or before August 1st.

Here is Relief for Women.

GOLDEN WEDDING IN JUNE.

MR. AND MRS. G. W. SPANGLER HAVE A GOLDEN CELEBRATION.

Other June Weddings in County and of Those Who Are Well Known Here.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Spangler celebrated their golden wedding last Friday, June 21, 1857, Geo. W. Spangler, of East Berlin, and Miss Charlotte A. Hantz, of York, were united in marriage by Rev. Leonard Gerhardt, then pastor of the Abbotstown and East Berlin Lutheran charge.

Mr. Spangler began life as a merchant in East Berlin and after the death of his brother Michael, over 35 years ago, bought the store in this place, becoming one of our successful merchants. The Spangler home on last Friday evening, for the golden anniversary, was beautifully decorated in gold and white, the special feature of the occasion being an elaborate and most enjoyable dinner.

Those present were: Rev. Dr. Clutz and wife, Alexander Spangler, Col. E. Spangler and wife, Miss Annie Wolf, Miss Laura Spangler, D. R. Marshall and Ernest Ziegler, of Gettysburg; Mrs. R. Baumgardner, Geo. P. Spangler and Miss Charlotte Baumgardner, York; Mrs. Amanda Stouffer and Mrs. Solomon Spangler, of East Berlin; Mrs. I. S. Trostle and Mrs. Mame Spangler, of Harrisburg; Paul E. Spangler and wife and Mrs. Edward McCandlish, of Newville.

Devine—Lawrence.

James B. Devine and Miss Stella Lawrence, of Mt. Rock, were married at a nuptial mass at Conewago Chapel on Tuesday morning of last week, by Rev. Eugene Haltermeyer. Miss Sallie Breighner, of Edge Grove and Edward Small, of McSherrystown, were the attendants. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Speeringer on the Chapel farm and a wedding dinner was given the bride and groom by the latter's uncle, Wm. P. Devine, at the Hotel O'Bold, Hanover.

The groom is a grandson of James Devine, Sr., of Edge Grove and was recently honorably discharged from the United States Army.

Clapsaddle—Waltman.

At the home of Mrs. Mary E. Waltman, near McSherrystown, last Thursday evening, her daughter Miss Mary Waltman was united in marriage to Charles C. Clapsaddle, of Mt. Joy Twp. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. C. A. Waltman, of York. Misses Evelyn and Myrna Waltman, nieces of the bride served as flower girls and there were no attendants. A reception followed the ceremony. The bride has been a teacher in the public schools of Adams Co. for several years and the groom a popular blacksmith, doing business along the Baltimore pike.

Wolf—Thoman.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thoman of Hanover on last Wednesday, when their oldest daughter, Miss Carrie May Thoman was married to Ernest Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wolf of Abbotstown. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Myrtle O. Nace and "Oh Promise Me" during the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. P. E. Heimer, a former pastor of the bride. The bride's father was formerly superintendent of public schools of this county. The bride for six years taught in the Hanover public schools. The groom is business manager of the pattern making firm of Hanover, Mummert, Wolf, Dixon & Co. The young couple will live in Hanover.

Dougherty—Hess.

Harry D. Dougherty, of Altoona, son of Mrs. Mary Dougherty, of this place, and Miss Bertha M. Hess, daughter of John Hess, were united in marriage on last Wednesday June 19 by Rev. Dr. Jacob A. Clutz.

Heiges—Slaybaugh.

The only lady school director in the county, Miss Elsie I. Slaybaugh, of Biglerville, and E. D. Heiges, a rural carrier from the Biglerville office, were married on last Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride, by Rev. S. A. Diehl, of Bendersville. About fifty relatives of the bride and groom were present to witness the event. A reception followed the ceremony. The young couple came to Gettysburg on the late train and next day continued the honeymoon to Baltimore and Washington.

Redding—Bumbaugh.

Harry W. Redding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Redding, of this place, and Miss Cora L. Bumbaugh, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Bumbaugh, also of this place, were united in marriage at the parsonage of St. Francis' church, Harrisburg, by Rev. Father McGrath, at 7 p. m., Saturday, June 22. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Redding, sister of the groom, and Harry Bumbaugh, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride was dressed in white silk mull and carried a prayer book. The maid of honor was dressed in light blue silk mull. The groom and best man were attired in the usual black. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Redding went to their newly furnished home in Harrisburg. The groom is a plumber and steam fitter and is employed by J. W. Morrow, of Harrisburg.

Shellaman—Bowers.

W. H. Shellaman, son of John Shellaman, of this place, and Miss Lella Bowers, of Mt. Holly Springs, were married on last Thursday. They will live at Mt. Holly where the groom is employed in the printing business.

Rutters—Grimes.

John Edward Rutters and Miss Clara Levisna Grimes, both of McSherrystown, were united in marriage on Tuesday of last week at a nuptial mass in St. Mary's Church, McSherrystown, conducted by Rev. Father Brown.

Black—Skinner.

Henry V. Black, one of the proprietors of the Chambersburg Public Opinion, and Miss Mary Skinner, daughter of Capt. G. W. Skinner, superintendent of the Scotland Soldiers' Orphans' School, were married in Trinity Episcopal Church, Chambersburg, last Wednesday evening.

Horne—Rice.

Winfield G. Horne and Miss Evelyn Rice, both of this place have announced their marriage, ceremony having taken place in April in Maryland.

Eyler Respected.

Sheriff George L. Colestock on Monday morning received a visit from special messenger from Governor Stuart with a respite for Wm. Eyler until after the Board of Pardons has heard his case on July 9th and decided the petition for commutation of the sentence.

Wm. Eyler has been making some religious preparations. He has frequently been visited by Rev. Chas. Reinwald, pastor of the Lutheran church of Emmitsburg, with whose church such of the family as are church members have been associated. He has also been visited by Rev. Craig of Emmitsburg, Rev. Dr. J. A. Clutz and Dr. W. Woods, Jr., of this place, who have extended spiritual comfort to the prisoner.

Union Sunday Evening Services.

The Gettysburg Ministerium at a recent meeting decided in view of the summer vacations of pastors and church members that it would be advisable to hold union Sunday evening services and the following arrangement has been perfected.

During July and August union services will be held in our churches on Sunday evening according to the following schedule:

- July 7, Christ Lutheran church.
- " 14, German Reformed church.
- " 21, Episcopal church.
- " 28, Methodist church.
- Aug. 4, St. James Lutheran church.
- " 11, Presbyterian church.
- " 18, United Brethren church.
- " 25, Methodist church.

Each service will be in charge of the minister in whose church it is held. This arrangement provides that at least one church will be open in the evening during the summer.

Biglerville's Canning Factory.

The canning factory of Biglerville is a business place these days, many improvements being made. An additional building 32x40 feet is being erected and cellars have been excavated under several buildings. The proprietors have added a cider and butter making machine to the plant and it is proposed to operate the plant along progressive and up-to-date methods.

Gettysburg Loses Monument.

In reducing appropriations to meet income of the State Governor Stuart has applied the axe to a number of meritorious bills. He takes the position that he must lop off $20,000,000 to make income cover expenditures. One of the bills killed was an appropriation of $10,000 for a monument to General Geary at Gettysburg.

DR. E. D. HUDSON'S

SUDDEN DEATH VISITATION

FORMER RESIDENT DIES ON VISIT TO HER BROTHER.

Child Dies From Drink From Contents of Bottle Used to Color Butter.

Miss Mary Jane Shields, died very suddenly at the home of her brother Craig B. Shields on last Friday morning. She had made her home in Phila., for a number of years. On last Thursday evening she arrived at the home of her brother on a visit and seemed to be enjoying good health and was lively, showing little if any fatigue of the trip. Friday morning, the longest day in the year, and a coincidence is that on the shortest day of the year 73 years and six months previous she had been born, she arose and after breakfast went into the yard and spent some little time in looking around at familiar objects not seen for some years. Returning to the house and entering room she was seized with a paroxysm of pain and called for help. Mrs. Shields hurried to her and placed her on a lounge and Dr. H. M. Hartman was sent for, but about time of Dr's arrival life fled. The sudden death was a great shock to the family. One brother and two sister survive, C. B. Shields and Miss Alice Shields of this place, and Mrs. Susan Fritsch of Amsterdam, N. Y. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, Rev. W. W. Hartman and Rev. D. W. Woods conducting services, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Daniel C. Knauss, formerly of Brysonia but living the last eleven years in the old mens home at Gettysburg died there on June 17, aged 71 yrs. His body was brought out by undertaker H. P. Mark to the home of his brother Isaiah D. Knauss of Brysonia, from where the funeral was held on Wednesday morning last. He is survived by three brothers and three sisters, Isaiah D., William H. and Oliver all of Brysonia. Mrs. Daniel Arendt of Arendtsville, Mrs. Aaron Freed Franklin Twp., Mrs. Samuel Young of Altoona. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. C. Hesson, his pastor. Interment in the Greenmount Cemetery in Arendtsville.

Mrs. Sallie Taylor, widow of Alex Taylor Sr. died on the 18th., at the home of her son-in-law Geo. Hoke, of Brysonia, aged 78 years, 3 mos. and 24 days, his death was due to the infirmities of old age. Her husband preceded her in death 17 years ago. She is survived by four children Solomon and Reuben Taylor Mrs. George Hoke and Mrs. George Showers all of Brysonia and one sister and two brothers Miss Lucy and John Crum of Brysonia and Amos L. Crum of Bendersville. Her remains were interred in the Greenmount Cemetery at Arendtsville, Rev. T. C. Hesson her pastor being in charge of the funeral services.

Samuel Tucky, of Buchanan Valley became ill last fall and was taken to the old mens home at Gettysburg, where he died last Friday from organic heart trouble aged 54 years. H. P. Mark brought the body to his undertaking room in Arendtsville from where it was interred in the Greenmount cemetery at Arendtsville on Monday last.

Harry E. Rothhaupt, a well known miller of Freedom township on the banks of Marsh Creek departed this life on the 18th of this month after a lingering illness from consumption aged 38 years, 11 months and 25 days. The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter. The deceased was a member of Mason and Dixon lodge I. O. O. F. of Harney, the members of which and neighbors tenderly cared for him during his illness and many of them were present at his funeral to pay a last tribute of respect to his memory. Funeral services were conducted on last Friday morning at 9 o'clock by his pastor, Rev. Charles Reinwald, assisted by Rev. W. G. Minnick, with interment at Flohr's Cemetery. The pall bearers were John W. Benner, John F. Sharetts, Edwin H. Benner, J. Carra Smith, Jacob E. Sharetts and Martin Valentine.

Mrs. Adeline Sowers died at her home in Idaville on Friday evening, June 14, from consumption, aged about 64 years. The funeral was held on Tuesday of last week, services by Rev. Christman, interment at Mt. Taylor Church. She leaves a daughter Mrs. Wm. Sidesinger of Idaville, and two sons, Ira of Latimore township and Dennis at home.

Mrs. Ervin Johnson died of pneumonia at her home at Latimore on June 15 aged about 35 years. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert. The funeral was held on Tuesday of last week, services by Rev. Stanley Billheimer, interment at Chestnut Grove. She leaves a husband and eight children, youngest an infant eight weeks old.

Jacob Meals, a native of Gettysburg, Adams County, died June 4th. at Carthage, Ill., aged 79 years, 2 mos. and 16 days. Mr. Meals resided in Pennsylvania until 1854, when he went to Chicago. He soon moved to Iowa City, Iowa, and later to Fairfield. He was married at Fairfield to Mary J. Alexander, Jan. 1857 who died at Carthage in 1880. To this union were born four sons and one daughter. Frederick died in 1872, the surviving members are Nannie, John, Charles and William all of Carthage. The surviving members of his immediate family are a brother Joseph of Altoona, Pa., and two sisters, Hannah Walters, of Gettysburg, and Lydia Pannabaker, of Hanover. In 1860 Mr. Meals took charge of a hardware store at Carthage. He pursued merchandising for a number of years, finally taking up wagon making, and later carpentering, which he followed until within the last year or so. He held the office of city marshal, street commissioner and alderman. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church. In 1848, he was made an Odd Fellow. He was industrious and honest and had the respect of everyone, a good neighbor and citizen.

Chester Elicker, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Elicker, died at his parents' home on the Emanuel Gochenaur farm near East Berlin, aged 1 year 10 months, and 5 days. On Friday preceding his death the child went to the sink and took therefrom a bottle of butter color, drank some and then replaced the cork in the bottle. The traces of the color were noticed about the child's mouth and upon making the discovery the child was hurried to the office of Dr. F. C. Wolf at East Berlin, who gave it an emetic. Serious complications were not expected, but they developed on the following Monday and death ensued.

Mrs. Wm. Brown of Silver Run, died last Friday aged about 55 years. The funeral was held on Monday. She leaves beside her husband two sons and three daughters, Edward Brown of Union Mills, William, Mollie and Gertrude at home and Mrs. Irvin Burgoon of Gettysburg.

Loving Cup Prize Won.

Co. B, Sons of Veterans Reserves, Capt. Wm. McG. Tawney in command captured the prize cup at Scranton last week for the best drilled company in manual of arms and firing. The cup is a large silver loving cup lined with gold and is given by the United Spanish War Veterans to the best drilled company. Our boys were up against a number of other companies and did not expect to run away with the prize, but their work has been first-class and has been kept at the top notch, so the prize just naturally had to fall their way.

The company of 22 men and a large delegation of Sons of Veterans returned home Saturday greatly delighted over the Scranton encampment.

The Why and the Wherefore.

There is never a why without a wherefore. For instance, Hood's Sarsaparilla roots out the cause of the disease. Wherefore, when people take his medicine faithfully and persistently their diseases disappear.

It cures scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, dyspepsia, kidney complaint, etc., because these diseases have their origin in the blood. Thousands of people who once suffered from such troubles are alive today, and say they cannot help praising Hood's Sarsaparilla because it has given them good health, lengthened their lives and afforded them new opportunities for happiness and usefulness.

It is a beneficent work that Hood's Sarsaparilla is doing. It helps poor tired mothers by purifying and enriching their blood and giving them appetite and strength. It builds up broken down constitutions, relieves the pangs of rheumatism and neuralgia, dispels the horrors of dyspepsia and nervous prostration, overcomes the symptoms of catarrh, eradicates scrofula, salt rheum and all blood diseases, and makes the weak and debilitated feel strong and vigorous.

FESTIVAL.—Rocky Grove Sunday School will have a festival on Saturday, July 20. If weather is unfavorable on Monday following. je 26 td

WHEN THE REBELS CAME

A MEMORY OF A "RARE" DAY
IN JUNE 1863.

A Day Pupil of Oak Ridge Seminary
Tells How School and Closing Soiree Was Broken up By War.

Much fault is found with "Father Time." In looks and speeches, prose and rhyme. But we will not upbraid. For he has left our hearts as young as in the years we laughed and sung. In sunlight, and in shade.

As we witness the inevitable shifting of the scenery, on the stage upon which we are all actors, we are inclined to pause, and take a retrospective view. And we follow the tracing, on the mental canvas, knowing each is but a link in the chain which connects the past and the present, or as characters inscribed on a leaflet, in the book of Memory.

As the season advances, we are reminded of a "rare" day in June, and we hear a slight rustle of the pages in the book, as the July days draw near evoking a memory of other July days, when we with the beautiful accompaniments of youth, and its blissful ignorance, wended our way, arm laden with books, to school, out on the Chambersburg pike, to "Oak Ridge Seminary," over which, Miss Carrie Sheads, a highly accomplished lady, presided as principal. Her name is honorably mentioned in "Women of the War," for heroic acts at "Oak Ridge Seminary," during the memorable days of July 1863. Afterward, occupying a position under the Government, which required the translation of languages, and other duties pertaining to that position.

Well do we remember, that "rare" day in June, when we, with others, some representing sister states, Maryland, and some from different counties in our own state, were grouped in the school-room of "Oak Ridge Seminary." The sound of horses' hoofs was heard, and in deathless silence, and mortal terror, we gazed in each others' faces, recognizing, at last that the whispering and mutterings, of days and weeks were no longer an echo, dying away in the distance, but had assumed shape, and become a realization.

The "Rebs." are coming, this time "for certain." Down the hill they came, as we sat, in fear and trembling, awaiting some terrible fate. And in imagination, swords and guns were flashing, and we were already riddled with bullets, or decapitated. Yes, "rare" day in June. Could any conception of the poet have then invested that vision with beauty?

To us, the first page in the history of the War, was presented. Amid the clatter of hoofs, they were cavalry, you know, and the din of voices, the horses bore their grey clad riders into Gettysburg, led by one, whom report said, had once called our town, his home.

Then—didn't we town girls, or day pupils, without bidding our teacher, or the other pupils who were the "city boarders," our accustomed good evening—didn't we make a dash for home? Electricity was not needed then, neither was any leader. Over that pike we went, as though possessed with wings, expecting there were more to follow. And not a few backward glances were cast, as we ran panting for breath, alternately crying, or laughing, as something appealed to our sense of ridiculous as the frantic endeavors of some of us, to pick up our books, which fell to the ground, as we stumbled or the different directions which were taken, as the nearest way home.

The noise made by the cavalrymen could be plainly heard, as some of us went over fields and fences, and some ran up Chambersburg St., into the Eagle Hotel. Some time elapsed before the "Rebs." came up Breckenridge Street, and as we had reached home safely, we quietly took another view, without following them, to see what they were going to do. We know they "came," we "saw," and they left our town, without "conquering." In the mental canvass, the tracings of that "rare" day in June, will remain ineffaceable. They were but as outlines of a picture, which the artist makes with his pencil, ere he completes his design, and tints it with light and shadow, presenting it, either as something beautiful, or something hideous. Echo answers hideous, for that "rare" day, was June 26, 1863.

The peaceful serenity of our beautiful school days, was now broken. Would we have our "Soiree" or not? That, for which "Demosthenians" and "Ciceronians," had then united, and almost daily rehearsed, before an imaginary appreciative audience, as on many occasions each division was accustomed to present, effusions, from the brain of philosopher, or sage, with Salutory and Valedictory evolved from the "misty" brain of this Ciceronian or that Demosthenian, who flew, with invisible wings, over the Chambersburg pike, on the 26, of June, 1863. Yes, "rare" day in June, as we gaze now, upon the shifting scenery, we know our brain was misty, and we saw, as "through a glass darkly." And we whisper softly, to ourselves, that our "glass" is not yet, properly adjusted.

But the fragrance of the flowers of June, still lingered in the air, as they scattered their petals in the breeze. A portent, it seemed, of days to come, when misdeeds, far outnumbering, and outweighing the petals of the June flowers, would fill the air with their foul odor, as they sped on their mission of death. The light and shadow must blend. So with the sound of sweet music animating our being, and many of the songs indicative of the times, blending with the highest flights of rhetorical patriotism, and the hopes of youth, lingering in our heart, under such inspirations, we hoped for the final day of June, and still continued our walks, over the Chambersburg pike, to "Oak Ridge Seminary." Some, it may be from force of habit, or because we wanted to practice, or because we loved the companionship of our sister pupils who were the "city boarders." And because we didn't know for certain, whether our "Soiree" was "to be or not to be." But a short time, and the decision was rendered. On the final day of June, again we came over the Chambersburg pike, but this time jubilant, for the Union Soldiers were coming, and we sang our songs triumphantly. "E Pluribus Unum," "All Hail to the Union," "Cheer Boys, Cheer," "John Brown's Body" and others, echoed in the air. Coming up Chambersburg Street, we found the town in motion, and advancing further, on our way, the Union troops came. A group of singers old and young, stood at Powers' corner, and our voices blended with theirs, and "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching" and "Rally round the Flag" and "Maryland, my Maryland," echoed all along the line, as we watched the marching of Buford's Cavalry. Away past the corner of Breckenridge Street, which we had now reached, they marched, applauding the inspiring songs of both white and colored patriots. So we cheered, and waved, and sang, and admired the Blue, more than the Grey.

And, has not the imagination of the poet clothed that "rare" day in June, with beauty, and in "tuneful numbers," of song and story, we still hear the echo of the martial tread, and see the gleaming of the "trappings of War."

And thus, as we witness the shifting of the scenery, memory ever takes a backward sweep, and gazes upon the tracings on the canvass.

June 26.—30.—1863.

June 26.—30.—1907.

What a beautiful combination now is the "Blue and the Grey."

THROWN FROM WAGON.

Buchanan Valley, June 21. James Brady, upwards of seventy years of age, whilst engaged in fastening a tie pole on a load of lumber at John Dillon's mill, was thrown from the wagon by it slipping and fell upon a square piece of lumber on his back. He was seriously hurt but is improving at present.

Miss Mary C. Irwin has returned from the Chambersburg Hospital where she underwent an operation in May.

James Shepard had his barn raising on Wednesday. The day was not a very good one but they succeeded in raising it in the afternoon.

Misses Bertha McKenrick, of Hanover, and Cecelia Bayly, of Gettysburg, were visitors to the Valley recently.

George Beck, Jr., and wife, buried one of their twin daughters on Tuesday. Death was caused by teething and was ill but a few days. It was aged about five months and was interred in St. Ignatius cemetery.

John Musser fell from the roof of Leo Lillon's house, that he was roofing, to the porch roof and then to the ground. He was badly bruised, but no bones were broken. Dr. W. E. Wolff was called in and he is doing well at present.

Charles Kuhn visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abner D. Kuhn, the past week.

Mrs. Albert Cole attended the Commencement of Penn'a College. S.C.S.

SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES.

Barlow, June 17.—The Cumberland township school board met at Hotel Gettysburg on Monday, June 17 and organized as follows: Pres., Jacob E. Sharretts, Sec., R. H. Black, Treas., H. D. Bream. The other members of the board are David Forney, David Wible and Mr. Hair. The tax rate was laid at 3-1-2 mills.

Mrs. Charles Fisher and her son Horner of Charlotte, N. C., are on a visit to her parents, N. M. Horner, Esq., and wife, of this place.

On last Wednesday Dr. S. B. Weaver of Littlestown was called into consultation with Dr. Diehl of Gettysburg at the home of Eugene S. Kelly over his daughter who was severely hurt about a week ago. At this writing she is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. John Irwin and her daughter Carolyn of Philadelphia are spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Worley Rudisill of this place.

John W. Black and wife are spending a few days in Freedom District, Carroll Co., Md., with his step brother and sister, Mrs. Millard Shoemaker.

Miss Hazel Rudisill and Ira Rudisill of Hanover paid their respects to the Misses Rudisill of this place.

H. L. Shryock, our champion thresherman, of near this place, has purchased a wheat threshing outfit, a new Peerless and Reversible drag and chaf separator. Now farmers give him a chance.

Jacob A. Boyd of Mountjoy township has improved his home by papering three of his rooms.

Our merchant, A. S. Mills, made a business trip to Baltimore this week. J.F.S.

P. O. S. of A. Dedication.

Littlestown, June 21. The new building of the P. O. S. of A. will be ready for dedication on the Fourth of July. Preparations are being made for very elaborate ceremonies in connection with the event. Several of the State officers will be present and will deliver addresses. There will also be a monster parade of P. O. S. of A. organizations from neighboring towns and cities. A prize of $55 will be given to the order having the most men in line, including the band, and one of $5 to the one having the second largest number. A fair will also be held in the new building on the evenings of July 4, 5 and 6.

The Sixth Annual Commencement of St. Aloysius School was held last Friday evening and was well attended. The graduates were Miss Helen Spalding and Miss Sara Grau. The exercises throughout were of a high order and reflected much credit upon the Sisters of Charity who have brought this school to such a high standard of excellence.

SILVER RUN ITEMS.

Silver Run, June 21. Henry Kooztz has rented the blacksmith shop of Jerome Kooztz and has started to repair wagons.

Last Sunday A. J. Warehime and wife entertained James Lemon, wife and Esta Lemon, of near Westminster. REACH THE SPOT.

To cure an aching back, The pains of rheumatism, The tired-out feelings, You must reach the spot—get at the cause.

In most cases 'tis the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Charles Bierbach, stone contractor, living at 2625 Chestnut St., Erie, Pa., says: "For two years I had kidney trouble, and there was such a severe pain through my joints and limbs that I could not stoop or straighten up without great pain, had difficulty in getting about and was unable to rest at night, arising in the morning tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were irregular and deposited a heavy sediment. Doctors treated me for rheumatism, but failed to help me. I lost all confidence in medicine, but Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me so quickly and so thoroughly that I gladly made a statement to that effect for publication. This was in 1898, and during the six years which have elapsed I have never known Doan's Kidney Pills to fail."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Bierbach will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley, of Washington, D. C.; Prof. Bennett, of Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine of the kind sold through drug stores for like purposes. It has no such professional endorsement as any other medicine. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Constipation

Balanced sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, more all wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man. If physicians can not find Nature's way to health. And this is certainly true with regard to Constipation.

The lack of certain tree in California—Osmunda—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Osmunda bark is given its greatest presiding power to correct constipation. A toothsome Dr. Shoop's Laxative, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingredients and sweet oil of sweet almond. It is a most effective, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Bloating, Constipation, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No grating, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Laxatives are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

MAKING SOAP.

The Modern Process Much Like the Old Time Method.

One great quality of the soap used to make their own soap by the following process: A barrel was raised off the ground sufficiently high to allow a tub to be placed under it, and the bottom of the barrel was perforated with small holes. It was then filled with wood ashes and now and then a bucket of water was thrown on them, which found its way into the tub beneath. As the water percolated through the ashes it dissolved the potash and soda which are always found in the ashes of plants, and thus a solution was attained which was put into an iron boiler with a quantity of grease fat and the mixture boiled for an hour or longer. Salt was then added, and as the mixture cooled a solid layer of curd soap solidified on the top of the water.

The modern process of soap making is practically identical, only instead of ashes a weak solution of caustic soda or lye is used. Fats and oils are boiled along with this lye, and the mixture is kept constantly agitated. As the temperature increases stronger lye is used until the operation is completed. Salt is then added, and as soap is insoluble in salt water it rises to the top of the soda liquor. The lye is then run off and a fresh solution of soda added, after which the soap is again boiled. The boilers are then left for several hours to allow impurities to settle, and the soap is finally run off into molds and cut into bars.

Fancy soaps are generally made by re-melting ordinary soap and adding coloring matter and perfumes.

Glycerin is an important byproduct of soap making. Mostly all fats consist of glycerin and stearic acid. When they are boiled with soda the soda extracts the stearic acid from the glycerin, and the latter is run off with the soda liquor when the first boiling is completed, but it is subsequently recovered by distillation.—Minneapolis Journal.

Thought He Was a Butter Expert.

At a party the hostess said to a guest: "I want you to entertain Mr. Blank a little. He looks bored to death. I will introduce him, and you must try to amuse him. You know his strong point is butter, on which he has written a book."

The lady guest gracefully undertook the task of entertaining the man, inwardly wondering that he should be so interested in butter—of which she knew very little—when his face indicated a mind given to much profound thinking.

However, with butter in view, she began on the weather, gradually got to the country, then on to a farm, from that to cows and at last to butter. The man looked more bored than ever, the magic word butter producing not the slightest effect, and he left her somewhat abruptly and soon withdrew from the house.

"I did my best," she explained to the hostess. "I went through agonies to prove that I was deeply interested in butter, but it was all in vain."

"Butter!" exclaimed the hostess. "What possessed you to talk to that man, of all men, on butter? I told you he had just written a book on Buddha, and I knew how deeply you two were interested in the same subject."

And they said in chorus, "Gracious!"—Strand Magazine.

Two Seasons' Hauls.

A slow smile spread over the face of Amos Rudd as he prepared, with his usual deliberation, to answer the question of the newcomer from Massachusetts.

"Yes, I do considerable teaming, first and last," he said cheerfully. "Haul logs in winter and city folks in summer. I don't know which is the hardest work."

"Why, you have to do heavy lifting with logs, of course," said the young person from Massachusetts, with some indignation. "That must be a great deal harder than just carrying people to and from the hotel and taking them to drive, as your wife told me you did."

"She don't go," remarked Mr. Rudd in a casual tone. "And not being an eyewitness of any of the puffing and heaving she's no proper judge. The logs are hefty, it's true, but once get 'em on an' there they are. I've never known 'em to squirm around, lean all to one side till they most upset the gearing of ketch me by the sleeve for the sake of a mess o' roadside bloom."

"I've weighed my two occupations in my mind off an' on a good many times, an' I'm not yet prepared to say which of 'em takes the most wear out o' me, no, ma'am!"—Youth's Companion.

Brief, but to the Point.

A young fellow at college wrote to his uncle, on whom he entirely depended, his:

My Dear Uncle—Ready for the needful. Your affectionate nephew.

The uncle replied:

My Dear Nephew—The needful is not ready. Your affectionate uncle.

It is pleasant that affection should survive pecuniary embarrassments, as it did in the case of Samuel Foote's mother and himself:

My Dear Sam—I am in prison for debt, come and assist your loving mother.

Dear Mother—So I am; which prevents his duty being paid to his loving mother by her affectionate son. SAM FOOTE.

A nobleman was deeply in love with a "lady fair." He met her one evening at a crowded ball, and as he could not get an opportunity of talking to her he contrived to slip into her hand a piece of paper with the two words, "Will you?" written upon it.

The reply was equally brief: "Won't I?"

The Thrones of Russia.

It is hard to say offhand how many thrones the Russian emperor has, says a writer on "The Thrones of Europe." The three chief ones are those at the Imperial palace and the Winter palace at St. Petersburg and in the Kremlin at Moscow. This last was a present to the Czar Alexis in 1690 from the Shah of Persia. It is entirely covered with thick plates of gold set with precious stones and alternating with plaques of ivory chiseled in high relief. The fact and date of the presentation are recorded in an inscription on the back of the throne. Just above are glistening double headed eagles of Russia, with angels on either side supporting the imperial crown. In the Imperial palace at St. Petersburg the throne stands in an alcove of the marble throne room, with a wide stretching canopy with thick gold cords and deep fringes of gold embroidery. On the curtains behind are embroidered the arms of the Romanoffs surmounted by the crown, with a curious star shaped border all round. Three wide steps lead up to the throne.

Vain Longing.

Ardup looked up bitterly from the book he was reading. The words "one touch of nature" had caught his eye and had started a train of thought.

"I wish it were possible," he soliloquized. "I've touched everybody else."

—Chicago Tribune.

He Enjoyed It.

A TIGER IN A TREE.

Experience of a Whaler's Crew in the Island of Java.

Two days had been spent watering ship at a spring on the banks of the New river, which is a day's sail from Anjer, a neat little road-head in the island of Java, and on the morning of the third day the captain of the New Bedford whaler concluded he would make an excursion a few miles up the river. Accordingly his boat was fitted out with some provisions, and there was a gun for each man, with plenty of ammunition. The captain took his rifle, the only weapon of his kind on board. A young whaler with a good shot—a tiger at ten paces—being his most famous achievement—was ordered into the boat as the boatman and sharpshooter. When followed after they set sail he best told in his own words as he has written them in Forest and Stream:

The wind was fair, and we proceeded up the river at a good pace. It was a narrow, sluggish stream, its banks bordered with virgin forests and no sign of human habitation. The trees were full of birds and monkeys, and they kept up a racket which was novel and interesting to us. Then, too, the captain was in excellent humor, full of yarns of his voyages and adventures, and the time passed rapidly. At noon we ate our lunch and took in sail and began our return journey, estimating that we had gone up the river about fifteen miles.

The wind was now dead ahead, and we got out oars for a fifteen mile pull, a mere trifle for well seasoned whalers. Bending to the oars, we made the boat spin along at a lively gait and were some five miles away from the turning point when suddenly the captain exclaimed:

"My goodness! Look at that tiger!"

And sure enough, lying well on an overhanging branch of a tree under which we must pass lay a magnificent tiger, evidently watching its chance to spring into our boat.

To say that the captain was "galled" conveys but a faint idea of his mental condition, and as for my shipmates they were a sight to behold. Perhaps my experience at Anjer helped to steady my nerves, for while the captain was still in a funk I said confidently:

"Captain, let me have your rifle, and I feel sure I can knock that fellow off his perch."

The captain handed me the rifle, and in an instant I drew a bead, and just as the captain was saying, "Now, Jack, don't miss him," I fired. I felt shaky myself, for I knew if I missed him the chances were that when he made his spring he would land in our frail boat, and that would be the end of boat, captain and crew.

But the bullet went to the mark. Like an arrow from a bow the beautiful creature shot through the air. We felt the wind of his form as he passed only a few inches over our heads and, with a fearful splash, went below the surface of the water. The instant he struck the captain roared like a lion:

"Now pull, boys, pull! Let's get out of this infernal hole!"

We did pull, better perhaps than we ever did on going on to a whale, and the gait we made in going back to the ship held the record for the rest of the voyage. Long after, sometimes when the captain would get excited in pulling for a fleeing whale, he would sing out: "Pull, boys, pull! There's a tiger up that tree!"

The Crow of Phantoms That Dazed Three Young Women.

An experience wherein phantoms, presented themselves to view in prodigious numbers simultaneously is related by a young lady whose name, at her request, is withheld, the narrative being endorsed by her sister, who was with her at the time. She writes:

"One autumn night my sister and myself, with our maid, were returning from evening service in the village church. There was a thick fog. The moon was full, but it made a sort of steam in the fog instead of shining brightly. Suddenly I saw a man at my sister's side, who had come there without making a sound. I pulled her sleeve, whispering, 'Let the man pass.' As I spoke the man disappeared."

"In another moment we were all bewildered at the sight around us. It was as if we were in a crowded street, innumerable figures surrounding us. Men, women and children were moving briskly about, some singly, others in groups, but all without a sound. Some seemed to rise out of the grass on either side of us and to come out on the other side. The women were dressed in bygone fashion, with high bonnets and shawls and large boucians on their dresses."

"There was one very tall man who took great strides, though perfectly motionless. We approached our own gate, where we should turn in, and then we had a long driveway to walk up before we could reach the house. I think that by the time we had reached the gate all the figures had disappeared except this one tall man. He had quite a different look from any of the others—more horrible altogether. As we entered our gate, to our intense relief, he passed by along the road and vanished. Of course we were all very frightened. The maid and my sister were crying aloud."

In a case like this, where the same spectral phenomena are witnessed by several persons, the value of the testimony obviously is multiplied a hundredfold, for, while one individual may be a victim of a hallucination, such an illusion can hardly be shared by many. What, then, is to be said in answer to such evidence, furnished by deponents of unimpeachable character and reputation for truthfulness? To suppose that they are combining in the manufacture of a lie is scarcely reasonable. —Joseph M. Rogers in Lippincott's.

The Invention of Armor.

The idea of the invention of armor for the protection of the body from weapons came from the ancients, who, noticing the natural armor of various kinds of animals, particularly the armadillo, imitated it. In early times before metal was used in armor making the warriors used rough hides of several thicknesses, and the first armor ever worn was made from slices taken from the hoofs of horses and fastened together with pegs. Fish scales and the scales of large snakes were also gathered and fastened together until they formed a thick layer and were used as armor. The armor of the middle ages was a continuation of the ancient kind, made in the form of scales of iron or steel. Certain kinds of mail used in early times in England were copied from the shells of crabs and lobsters. —Minneapolis Journal.

First Thought in Danger.

"Talking of the foolish things one thinks about even when in the midst of danger," remarked one of a group the other night, "I had promised my wife never to travel at night, and it is something I have always avoided, but necessity compelled it a few weeks ago, and as luck would have it there was an accident and the cars were derailed. As the one in which I had my berth was rolling down an embankment and I was in the midst of blankets, pillows, grips, etc., the terrible thought flashed across my mind: 'What shall I tell Molly? Here I am traveling at night!'" —Columbus Dispatch.

Burial of Sir John Moore.

The city of Corunna, where Sir John Moore was killed, is a seaport at the entrance to the estuary of the Nervion river, 315 miles northwest of Madrid. The famous poem by Charles Wolfe is a misrepresentation of the scene of the battle, for Moore was not buried at night with "our lanterns dimly burning," but in the early morning of a rainy day, and the assemblage of English officers round the grave was dispersed by heavy artillery fire from the French batteries, the gunners mistaking the purpose of the gathering.

The Falling Leaf.

The falling of a leaf is brought about by the formation of a thin layer of vegetable tissue at the point where the leaf stem joins the branch of the tree. After the leaf ceases to make starch and sugar for the tree this tissue begins to grow and actually cut the leaf off. It is therefore not a mere breaking away on account of the wind bending the dried stems, but an automatic severing of the member no longer useful. The falling of ripe fruit is dependent upon the same process.

GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR INDIGESTION.

Interesting Statement by The People's Drug Store.

When a man comes into this store and calls for any particular indigestion remedy, we always give him what he asks for, but in case he leaves it to us we usually recommend Pepsikola tablets.

Here is a preparation we have been selling right over the counter for years, and from actual observation we know it must do good, and really does cure indigestion and dyspepsia or there would be a steady stream of people coming back for their money, as every 25 cent box is sold with the understanding that you must be decidedly benefited or there is nothing to pay.

You simply try Pepsikola tablets with the understanding that they will steady your nerves, improve your appetite, relieve wind belching coated tongue, sour stomach, fullness after eating, weakened energy, and other symptoms of indigestion or The People's Drug Store is ready at any time to pay back your money without the least argument.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. SEVENTEEN veterans are buried in Union Cemetery, East Berlin.

TRAVELING IN EUROPE.

What It Means to Ride Second Class on the Railroads.

A delusion of the guidebooks is the advice to ride second class on the railroads of Europe. It is often pointed out that first class and second class are frequently but divisions of the same car, and this makes a great impression on the inexperienced traveler, particularly if his purse is limited. Landing at Plymouth, Southampton, Havre, Cherbourg, Liverpool, you are at once conveyed to London or Paris on "steamer trains," under the same excellent conditions that have prevailed on your trip, but thereafter you are at your own resources, and if you are wise you will see to it that your seat is always engaged well ahead. If you travel second class between cities that correspond to New York and Philadelphia, say where intercourse is frequent and numerous, you will most likely have to stand up in all second class compartments. To get a second class seat between Vienna and Budapest, for example, is about like boarding a train for Coney Island at Brooklyn bridge on a summer Sunday afternoon, and if you do get a seat somebody else sandwiches and saucers on your lap.

Another point to be remembered is that in Europe you cannot engage a single sleeping compartment for yourself, as you can here. You have to show a ticket for each berth. Therefore it behooves the person travelling alone at night to seek out before arranging the trip some suitable companion or for parties of three or five or any odd number to make similar provisions.—Travel Magazine.

Diplomacy.

"John," she said, "I notice that almost everybody is wearing earrings now."

"But, my dear," replied John, "if they had such small and shell-like ears as yours they wouldn't clutter them up that way."

An Unfought Duel.

It is said that once when the late Dr. Tanner, the Irish M. P. in the British commons, had asked in the house whether it were true that the Duke of Cambridge had resigned his position as commander in chief a Major Jones of Penzance was so outraged that he challenged Dr. Tanner to a duel, and the following telegraphic correspondence took place:

In reply to your despicable question about the Duke of Cambridge I designate you a coward. Delighted to give you satisfaction across the water. Pistols!

To this Dr. Tanner at once replied:

Wire received. Will meet you tomorrow in Constantinople, under the tower of Galata, midnight. Being challenged, prefer torpedoes. Bring another ass.

GROOMING COUNTS

But it cannot make a Fair Skin or a Glossy Coat.

Women with good complexions cannot be homely. Creams, lotions, washes and powders cannot make a fair skin. Every horseman knows that the satin coat of his thoroughbred comes from the animal's "all-right" condition. Let the horse get "off his feed" and his coat turns dull. Caring, brushing and rubbing will give him a clean coat, but cannot produce the coveted smoothness and gloss of the horse's skin, which is his complexion. The ladies will see the point.

ALFALFA IN THE EAST.

Summer or Fall Seeding Is Often to Be Preferred.

The alfalfa of the eastern states is of the culture of the alfalfa of the United States are here being successfully introduced from station to station. Deep, well drained soils and various subsoils are best suited to alfalfa. Observations made by the New York Cornell station indicate that the alfalfa of the northern two-thirds of the state is better suited to alfalfa than the soils of the southern third, which are generally compact shaly silt and clay loams with a dense subsoil. Good yields of alfalfa have also been secured on gravelly and gravelly loams.

Time in the Soil.

The soil should be well supplied with lime, although applications of this substance have not always proved beneficial, as well as with potash and phosphoric acid, and if it is not well inoculated there should also be an abundant of readily available nitrogen present. The soil may be inoculated by means of infected soil or by the use of pure cultures of the nitrogen fixing organisms. In the first method soil from a field in which alfalfa has grown and produced abundant root tubercles is scattered over the field at the rate of 100 pounds per acre just before the seedbed. In experiments made by the New York Cornell station the first method was almost uniformly successful, leading to the conclusion "that this method of inoculation when needed will not fail of giving results unless the soil is in such condition that the bacteria cannot live in it."

The Young Plants.

It is absolutely essential that the young plants especially should have the most favorable conditions possible for growth, for, as G. A. Billings of the New Jersey station says:
"The young alfalfa plant is one of the weakest among farm crops, grows slowly, is easily checked or killed by weeds or by unfavorable conditions of the soil, weather or treatment. The seed bed is therefore of prime importance, and the greatest care must be taken to give the young plants plenty of available plant food and best soil conditions for the first year of their growth."

Summer or fall seeding following thorough tillage often proves preferable to spring seeding, which is more likely to be checked out by weeds. Somewhat heavier seeding—twenty to thirty pounds per acre—than is common in the west has generally been found preferable for the eastern states. Liberal applications of barnyard manure are especially beneficial to alfalfa. With early seeding on very weedy land it may be beneficial to seed with a nurse crop. With late seeding the nurse crop may be omitted.

THE CELERY INDUSTRY.

New Fields For the Production of This Crop Developing.

Celery growing on a commercial scale
in this country received special attention and made its greatest progress after the opening and draining of the "muck bed" areas of the great lake region. In Michigan, Ohio and New York several thousand acres of celery are grown annually. In California and Florida celery growing is now an important industry. New fields for the production of this crop are developing from time to time, and celery is now found in the market throughout almost the entire year.

Celery growing in Florida and California constitutes a different business proposition from its culture in the northern and eastern states. Maturing as it does in these warmer climates between the middle of December and April, the crop does not come into competition with that of the northern and eastern territory to any extent, but serves to lengthen the season of celery consumption.

It has not been found profitable in most localities to store celery for any great length of time, it being more satisfactory to load it into the car direct from the field and place it upon the market as rapidly as it becomes blanched. The northern and eastern states can supply all that is wanted in a commercial way from early June until about the 1st of January; the Florida and California product comes upon the market about the last week in December and continues until March or April, after which time there is not so great a demand for celery until the northern crop again comes upon the market.—W. R. Beattie.

The Ever Present Menace.

The one ever present element of danger in hog raising is the liability of loss from cholera. This disease is probably carried from farm to farm by farmers themselves as often as in any other manner. In a field or lot of sick hogs the soil becomes infested with the germs. These are carried on men's shoes, on wagon tires and in other similar ways from one farm to another.
Strict quarantine will frequently carry a herd of hogs safely through an epidemic of cholera, but there appears at present to be no satisfactory way of avoiding the disease. The farmer who depends largely on hogs for his income must therefore be prepared to meet occasional losses from this cause.

Skim Milk Hog Food.

Many people complain that the dairy business, especially when the object in view is buttermaking, is not so profitable as it should be, but in many cases comparatively little attention is paid to the proper utilization of skim milk as a hog food. Finally it is very important for every farmer to realize more fully the best proportions in which to feed corn and skim milk in order to obtain the largest gain with the least waste of food.—Professor A.
M. Sonle.

FARM FIELD AND GARDEN

HOG FEEDING.

Soy Beans Proved to Be a Valuable Adjunct to Corn.

An experiment in feeding a lot of hogs at the Purdue university station leads to these conclusions:

Soy beans proved to be a very valuable adjunct to corn, being the most efficient food tested.

Pigs fed a ration of one part soy beans to two parts corn produced two and one-fifth times as much gain in the same length of time as did those receiving corn only.

It required 310 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain where one-third of the ration was soy beans, while it took 557 pounds per 100 pounds of gain where corn alone was fed.

Comparing the soy bean ration with the middlings and tankage rations, the amount of feed required per 100 pounds gain stands—soy beans and corn, 310; middlings and corn, 343;
tankage and corn, 330 pounds.

Cornmeal alone was shown to be very inefficient as a pork producer.

The pigs receiving a ration of one-third soy bean meal and two-thirds

SOY BEANS.

cornmeal produced 402 pounds gain. A ration of one-half middlings and one-half cornmeal produced 365 pounds gain. One-sixth tankage and five-sixths cornmeal produced 348 pounds gain, while a ration of cornmeal produced only 183 pounds gain. Stated in another way, cornmeal alone produced less than one-half the gain made by a ration of one-third soy beans and two-thirds corn, one-half as much as middlings and corn and but little more than one-half as much as tankage and corn.

Cornmeal alone impaired the digestive capacity of the pigs, as shown by the feed consumed, which was 320 pounds less than any other lot consumed.

The longer the pigs were fed on corn alone the more inefficient it became, requiring 1,214 pounds of feed per 100 pounds during the last week of the test against 500 pounds the first week and an average of 557 pounds.

Cornmeal alone produced poor appetites, light bone, deficient development in valuable portions of the carcass and a general state of unthrift, as shown by the hair, skin and hungry look of the animals.

The gains on pigs fed under the conditions of this test cost $5.01 per 100 pounds where cornmeal alone was used, $3.44 with one-half middlings $2.59 in the lot receiving two-thirds cornmeal and one-third soy bean meal and $2.71 where five-sixths corn and one-sixth diester tankage were fed.

Low Down Wagon.

There is nothing on the farm that I find more handy than my low down wagon, says a writer in New England Homestead. I use it for all my road and farm work and cannot say anything but words of praise. For loading grain, straw, manure, coal, wood or, in fact, anything, it far excels the old fashioned high wagon. I use four inch tires, with a brake, and instead of tearing up the field it rolls it and causes lighter draft and little damage
—in fact, none to a growing crop.

On the road it runs lighter than the high wheels, in my estimation. The sun and rains have no effect on a steel wheel, thus saving binding of tires and oftentimes a breakdown through dried wheels and loose tires.

All who have seen it admire it and think, as I do, it excels the high wheeled wagon by far. It will only be a short time until the old wooden high wheeled wagon will be done away with.

Potato Scab.

A popular belief prevails that lime produces potato scab and that barnyard manure does the same thing.
This is an erroneous opinion, because nothing can produce potato scab except spores of the scab fungus. This scab fungus, however, thrives best in an alkaline soil, and a heavy coat of barnyard manure or a dressing of lime causes the soil to become alkaline; consequently if there are spores of the scab fungus in a soil that has been treated with lime or a heavy dressing of barnyard manure the conditions of that soil favor the growth of the scab fungus.—Kansas Farmer.

One Way to Destroy Red Ants.

To destroy the red ant, which is in summer months a great trouble to the gardener, place fresh meat bones where ants are found. They will soon collect in vast numbers on the bones and may be easily destroyed by dipping the bones in hot water, suggests R. R. in American Agriculture. Repeating the operation a few times will entirely do away with the pest.

AN OLD PROVERB.

"A Penny Saved Is a Penny Earned"
Is Almost Universal.

Like most of these wise old proverbs,
"a penny saved is a penny earned" is probably, in some form or other, universal. In Germany there are three forms of it—"A penny saved is a penny gained" ("Ersparter Pfennig ist so gut wie erworben"), "A penny saved is twice gained" ("Ein ersparter Pfennig ist zweimal verdient") and "Penny is penny's brother" ("Pfennig ist Pennig's Bruder"). In Spanish, "A penny saved is a penny saved" ("Quien come y dexa, dos veces pone la mesa"). In Dutch, "A penny saved is better than a florin gained" ("Een stuiver gespaard is beter dan een gulden gewonnen").
In Danish, "A penny in time is as good as a dollar" ("En Skilling er i Tide saa god som en Daler"). In French, "Saving is getting" ("Qui epargne, gagne").
Similarly in German, "Saving is a greater art than gaining" ("Sparen ist grossere kunst als erwerben"). Danish,
"Money saved is as good as money gained" ("Den Penge man sparer er saa god som den man avler"). Italian,
"Money is money's brother" ("Il danaro e fratello del danaro"). But money is no gain when it "advances meacocks" ("Deniers avancent les bediers"). English, "Penny and penny laid up will be many," and "Who will not keep a penny shall never have many"—he who is prodigal of little can never have a great deal.—London Notes and Queries.

SOME BIG BITES.

They Show the Power of the Jaws of the Crocodile.

The power of the jaws of the crocodile is terrific, says Sir Samuel Baker in his book on wild beasts.

Once, he continues, he had the metal of a large hook the thickness of ordinary telegraph wire completely bent together, the barbed point being pressed tightly against the shank and rendered useless. This compression was caused by the snap of the jaws when seizing a live duck which he had used as a bait, the hook being fastened beneath one wing. On one occasion he found a fish weighing seventy pounds bitten clean through as if divided by a knife.
This, again, was the work of the snap
of the jaws of a crocodile.

A Frenchman, M. Paul Bert, once made experiments on the strength of a crocodile's jaws by means of a dynamometer. He found that a crocodile weighing 120 pounds exerted a force of 208 pounds in closing his jaws. The lion has an enormous jaw power. On one occasion an African traveler pushed the butt end of his gun into a lion's mouth, and the pressure of the jaws cracked it as though it had been struck by a steam hammer.

A Tough Cure.

Faith will do wonders. A woman in Devonshire, England, recently said to a chemist:

"I've got a cruel, bad cough, surely,
I've heard that bronchial troches are good things. Have you got any?"

The assistant pointed to a small box
on the table and said:

"Yes; there they are."

"How much is it?" was the inquiry.
The price was paid, and the old woman took her departure. At night the assistant missed a box of glycerin soap (three cakes).

A couple of days afterward she returned to the shop and said:

"I want to take back two of them things I had t'other day. I took one of 'em. It was mortal hard to chew and awful to swallow, but it cured the cough."—London Queen.

Is Friday Unlucky?

Is Friday unlucky? Gladstone, Bencousfield, Washington, Bismarck, Fahrenheit and Spurgeon were born on Friday. Henry VIII. gave Calist his commission which led to the discovery of North America. Columbus actually discovered the continent and the pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth Rock on Friday. Once more: The first newspaper ad, and the first newspaper printed by steam power (the London Times) appeared both on a Friday, while the stamp act was repealed in England on the same day of the week.
With Charles Dickens Friday was an special favorite.—Chicago News.

The Horseshoe.

According to the old superstition, if you find a horseshoe and nail it over a door or on a door of entrance to your house or flat witches cannot enter. This belief is universal. The horseshoe as an amulet is known among Turks, Jews, gentiles, infidels, believers, heretics. The crescent emblem of the Buddhists is a horseshoe. The safeguard against witchcraft may be found in Tunis, Constantinople, Spain, Sicily.
Images of crocodiles made in Cairo carry horseshoes on snout and tail. The rich and aristocratic, the poor and lowly, believe alike in the efficacy of the charm.

Speech or Insult?

Does this penny belong to me? It is not an insult, but a judgment sentence;
if undeservedly, then he who does injustice ought to blush, not I. And what is this which is called an insult?
Some one has made a joke about the boldness of my head, the weakness of my eyes, the thinness of my legs, the shortness of my stature. What insult is there in telling me that which every one sees?

A Bad Scheme.

Mrs. Scraggs—And why did your new girl leave? Mr. Blinks—I paid her in advance. Mrs. Scraggs—I shouldn't think she would object to that. Mr.
Blinks—She didn't. It pleased her so she couldn't work.

WEALTH OF LAUREL BLOOM.

Suchman Valley, June 24.—The laurel is blooming in great profusion. The hillsides and road sides are one great mass of laurel bloom. The most rugged spots are made beautiful by the different shades of the flowers. The altar of God in St. Ignatius church is abundantly decorated with the grandest of flowers, the price of which is only the pleasure of gathering. The graves of our dead also share in the decoration which nature has so abundantly supplied.

Miss Rose Shepard is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shepard.

Miss Alverta Kimple spent a few days in Gettysburg visiting among her relatives and also visited Miss Sue O'Brien of Hilltown.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Becker and Paul and Miss Annie visited at Jacob J. Cole's and at Albert W. Cole's, also attending mass in St. Ignatius church last Sunday week ago.

Mrs. Adam Nicholas and son of Chambersburg visited at John Irwin's last week.

Misses Bertha McKenrick, Lottie Irwin and Cecelia Bailey were visitors to their homes in the Valley last week.

James McElwee and wife have moved from the Big Flat to Mount Union, Franklin county. Mr. McElwee and brother John spent Sunday in the mountain at his old home on the Flat.

George Knouse and his sister, Miss Annie were both home with their parents last week.

The good old summer time of which we sing has come at last and the hearts of all rejoice, as all nature is responding to the influence of the warm sunshine.

John F. Dillon is sawing shingles at Amos Newman's home for him.

Miss Estelle Martin of Gettysburg is spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Albert W. Cole.

COLD LIGHTNING BOLTS.

Arendtsville, June 24. During the heavy thunder storm that passed over this section last Thursday evening, lightning struck the gable end of the large barn on Rev. D. T. Koser's farm near this place. It knocked a few shingles off of the roof, then passed down the rod, killing one cow and injuring another. The cows were in the stable and were the property of David Hess, the tenant. It also struck an apple tree and the smoke house on Thomas A. Fieber's farm in Butler Twp., a locust tree in Frank R. Culp's barn yard in this place, and a locust tree close to Meade Taylor's house in Menallen Twp.

George E. Taylor, near Brysonia, raised his new barn last Tuesday and Thomas G. Heckenluber the frame work of his new house that he is building in this place.

Augustus Lerew, proprietor of the Mountain House in this place, has new potatoes as large as turkey eggs.

The weather has been very favorable during the past few weeks for a large crop of early potatoes.

The strawberry crop is much better than was expected a few weeks ago owing to the cold weather.

Eggs 15 cts. and butter 16 and 18 cts. at the stores.

MORE STORM DAMAGE.

Hamilton Township, June 24.—During the heavy thunder storm last Wednesday lightning struck a tree within a hundred yards of house of George Goodermuth and tore it to pieces and ripped the bark off of another tree nearby. Much hail fell with the rain.

Samuel Stoops is adding a new end to his house.

The corn has failed to come up in a number of places and much replanting has been done.

James A. Strasbaugh has moved from Emmitsburg to his old home place. He had been working in broom factory at former place and was taken sick.

Joseph Currens of Mt. Carmel was a recent visitor of his mother.

Ernest Meals of York spent several weeks with his sister, Mrs. Charlie King.

The mountain roads are very bad and not very safe to travel on. They need the attention of the supervisors.

SUDDEN DEATH.

East Berlin, June 24. Mrs. Elizabeth Wehler, nee Zinn, wife of Israel Wehler of this place died very suddenly on last Thursday morning from heart trouble. Mr. Wehler had gone down stairs to make the fire, and his wife followed. He went to the barn to feed his horse and hogs and as he came out of the barn she called to him and he hurried to her side. She told him to go to Doctor F. C. Wolf, living across the street. Doctor Wolf quickly came, asked her if she had any pain, and she replied no, and as the Doctor was preparing medicine for her she suddenly expired. She was born near Hunterstown and was aged 72 years, 11 mo. and 14 days. She was highly respected by her neighbors and friends. The funeral was held on Sunday, Rev. Shellheimer of York conducting the services, interment at Holtzswam church, J. R. Darone, funeral director. She leaves besides her husband two daughters, Mrs. Jacob Trostel of York county, living near Holtzswam church and Mrs. Wm. Julius of York.

Last Thursday night between 8 and 9 o'clock a heavy rain with thunder and lightning passed over our town. The house of Samuel Miller above town was struck by lightning and a good bit of damage done, the chimney was shattered and part of the flooring to the cellar was torn up and damaged. Lightning struck the barn of A. A. Gruver near Eisenhart's mill twice during same storm, the first bolt entered at the gable end of the large barn 112 feet long, tore some rafters into splinters then ran down to the ground at a corner. The second bolt hit the middle of the barn, ran down along a post of the mow. The mow was full of straw but the latter was not fired. The barn is damaged to a considerable extent.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baugher of this place sold a vacant lot on Main Street 65 feet front by 220 feet deep to Jacob Brothers for $1000.

Contractor A. B. Trimmer is excavating cellar for the new bank house on Main Street. The house will be 32 feet front and 62 feet deep, and two stories high, with a dwelling in rear to be rented.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES.

Barlow, June 24.—Children's Day exercises for Tressler Orphans Home took place at Mountjoy church on Sunday morning June 23, being well attended and a grand success. The services began promptly at 10 o'clock. Responsive service, prayer, all uniting, singing O Saviour, Precious Saviour, reading of Scripture, prayer by the pastor, singing Let it Ring, address of welcome by Miss Mable Bollinger, recitation by Mary Black, exercise by six small girls, duet by John W. Black and wife, God's Love and Care, recitation by Miss Mary Spangler, duet, A Child's Prayer, dialogue, Heavenly Care by two young ladies, Scriptural acoustic by eleven children, responsive reading, singing, A Song of Summer, by five small girls, recitation by Ruth Gettler and Viola Jacobs, exercise by four small boys, recitation by Miss Clara Coshun, singing, Feed My Lambs, recitation by Bessie Kelly, exercise, It is More Blessed to Give Than to Receive, by eight young ladies, singing, Give, Give, Give, pastor's address, anthem by the choir, offering for the orphans home, announcements, singing, To Thee O Lord, benediction. The exercises were well rendered and those who took part deserve special praise.

SHORT TALKS BY L. T. COOPER.

CONSTIPATION.

I can tell a person who is constipated on sight. Their complexion is pasty or yellow. Their eyes are dull, and they look and feel sleepy. Nowonder they do. The bowels are a sewer. They carry away the poisonous refuse. If they don't act the poisonous matter is absorbed by the body, and headaches, dizziness, bad complexion and eventually serious troubles result.

SAMUEL BOOREN.

There is no better rule for good health than that the bowels should move every day at the same hour if possible. Regularity can be acquired by making a habit of this. Foolish people neglect this and when chronic constipation effects them they take pills every few days to force the bowels to perform their natural function. As years go on they require more and more pills. This should be stopped. Cooper's New Discovery will build up the stomach and cause the bowels to act naturally. While taking the medicine get the habit of regularity, then gradually stop taking the medicine.

Here is a sample of letters from those who have tried it:

"For sixteen years I have suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and chronic constipation. I had frequent headaches and always felt tired and worn out. I heard of Cooper's New Discovery and began its use. After I had finished one bottle I was wonderfully improved. Constipation gave way to a pleasing regularity of the bowels and I ate better, slept better and felt better than I had for months. It is the greatest medicine I have ever known." Samuel Booren. 1742 Munsey Ave., Scranton Pa.

Our customers who have used them say the Cooper medicines do the work. We sell them.

Stockholders' Inspector Report

ON SPLENDID PROGRESS OF INTERNATIONAL LUMBER & DEVELOPMENT CO.

Once a year the stockholders of this company elect one of their number to visit their property and make a thorough inspection. Dr. Everet Van Slyke, of New York, the representative chosen this year, has just returned, enthusiastic over the development and wonder of resources of the plantation. Dr. Van Slyke's opinion may be judged by the conclusion of his report to the stockholders, in which he says:

I am not only ready to confirm all that the first Inspector has said, but also to declare that the literature of the Company not only has not overdrawn the picture but could not if it desired put the whole truth before the public. The proposition is too great. Their assured dividends are beyond peradventure. Mahogany, cedar and the many other varieties of hard woods now growing on the Company's property would alone pay these dividends for years to come, leaving the logwood, wild of henequen to come up in a few years there will be an increase of dividends that will be a surprise. New York, June 2nd, 1907. EVERT VAN SLIKE.

Dr. Van Slyke's complete report is a large booklet handsomely illustrated with photographs taken by members of his party. Sent free to any address—write at once.

Dr. Van Slyke's statements are supported by the verdict of several other large stockholders who returned on May 25th of this year from a visit to the plantation, made at their own expense. Let us send the statements of these men, whose personal observation leaves them not only satisfied but delighted with the prospects of their investment.

ADVANCE OF $50 IN PRICE OF STOCK

ON OR BEFORE June 30, 1907, the price of this stock will be advanced to $350 per share.

Only a limited number of shares remain to be sold at par—$300. At the present rate of sale, these may be disposed of at any time before June 30th, in which case the advance will go into effect immediately.

JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION VISITORS

Having rented a furnished house of ten rooms in Norfolk, Va., in a good locality, near the center of the city, on the Exposition Car Line, I am in a position to rent rooms—furnishing good comfortable accommodations—to visitors from Gettysburg and Adams County at a lower price than is generally charged here, and will gladly be of service to visitors as to what is to be seen inside and outside of the Fair grounds and best way to see the sights.
